

California Assembly Bill 2013 (AB 2013) is a California law requiring developers of generative artificial intelligence systems to publicly disclose information about the data used to train their models. The law passed unanimously in both the Senate and the Assembly, and took effect on January 1, 2026.

See also

California AI laws

Transparency in Frontier Artificial Intelligence Act

Artificial Intelligence Act

Regulation of artificial intelligence in the United States

Regulation of artificial intelligence

== References ==