

Critical ignoring is the practice of deliberately choosing not to engage with information that is irrelevant, misleading, or unreliable. It has been proposed as a way to manage information overload and reduce the influence of misinformation.

== References ==