

The parliamentary under-secretary of state for digital ID was a junior position in the Department for Science, Innovation and Technology and the Cabinet Office in the British government. The post was last held by James Frith

Responsibilities

The minister has responsibility of the following policy areas:

Digital ID

List of officeholders

== References ==